

How do we distribute wealth?

What is the economy about? Of the sharing of wealth. Who's looking at the cake, who's holding the knife? The economy is fundamentally the question of distribution. Why? Because the question of sharing is linked to that of scarcity and because without scarcity there are no economic problems. Certainly, "how do you make the cake?" is also a nice question that can occupy economists. What are the ingredients of the cake? Cars, pollution, drugs, software, books? Of the earth? Landscapes? With what energies do we make this cake? Work, capital, money, techniques, knowledge ...

Bernard Maris, Antimanuel d'économie, Bréal, 2015.

How do we distribute wealth?

What is the economy about? Of the sharing of wealth. Who's looking at the cake, who's holding the knife? The economy is fundamentally the question of distribution. Why? Because the question of sharing is linked to that of scarcity and because without scarcity there are no economic problems. Certainly, "how do you make the cake?" is also a nice question that can occupy economists. What are the ingredients of the cake? Cars, pollution, drugs, software, books? Of the earth? Landscapes? With what energies do we make this cake? Work, capital, money, techniques, knowledge ...

Bernard Maris, Antimanuel d'économie, Bréal, 2015.

